

About Lindenwood Nature Preserve

Lindenwood Nature Preserve has been a public city park since 1987 and became a dedicated nature preserve by the State of Indiana in 1994. Lindenwood encompasses 110 acres of oak-hickory forest and a small quiet two-acre pond. The Preserve is a serene place for hiking and fosters discovery and exploration.

Our Mission

We are dedicated to protecting Indiana's natural habitat while also providing programs that promote environmental education and cultural enrichment. We believe that fostering awareness within a natural setting enhances the quality of life through exploration and discovery.

Our Educational Programs

Our environmental programs are great for all ages and we are sure to have something to peak everyone's interest. Our programs are led by our naturalist and always contain hands-on activities that allow for experiential learning. Many of our programs also meet Indiana Academic Standards set forth by the State of Indiana. Programs can be scheduled May 1st through October 31st.
